Darrelle London's story is one of following your heart over your head. With the smarts to get accepted to law school, she chose instead to take a chance on music. So far so good! She has performed at legendary venues such as Hollywood's Troubadour Club, at renowned festivals such as Lilith Fair, North by Northeast, Canadian Music Week and International Pop Overthrow. She has been featured on MuchMusic, ET Canada and MTVMusic.com. Performing at Lilith Fair and sharing a stage with Sarah McLachlan was for Darrelle a career highlight and a dream fulfilled. Her music reached a new level of international recognition when her song "Understand" was featured in a three-month national ad campaign in South Korea. She is touring her new record in clubs, colleges and performing arts centres in the US and Canada - including the Lakes District!

Christopher Hunt in 'When That I Was'

Thursday evening,
November 27, 2014
7:30 pm
LDSS MPR

It's 1650. The Puritans have closed all the theatres in England. As a boy, old Jack Rice was a member of Shakespeare's troupe, performing with the famous actors of his day. Now he's on the run, finding shelter in a deserted theatre. He is nothing more than a dusty, abandoned old scrap of humanity. But he can take us to Queen Elizabeth's palace, and to the opening night of King Lear. 'When That I Was' deals with aging, homelessness and the power of art in troubled and dangerous times.

John Wort Hannam and The Blue Collar Band

LDSS MPR

In 10 years as a working musician, John has released 5 albums, captured a Juno nomination for Best Traditional/ Roots album, and a Canadian Folk Music Award for Album of the Year. "You're dead a long time" is John's mantra: "so you better get out there and play." John Wort Hannam and the Blue Collar Band's winsome and lonesome style of acoustic roots blends metaphor, irony and rhyme. John is proudly Canadian, and one of the torchbearers of a songwriting tradition that includes the likes of John Prine, Loudon Wainwright III and Steve Earle.
